COMMENCEMENT TO BE HELD JUNE 7

Commencement activities this year will last from June 5 through June 7 and, for the first time, be devoted entirely to the graduating class. Alumni Day usually held during this time will be held next fall.

Activities will begin immediately following the final exam on June 5 when the seniors leave for their class picnic at Barth's.

Friday, June 6, a tea for seniors and their families will be held at 4:30 p. m. at Headmaster Dolven's home, followed by a buffet dinner at 6:00 in Gehring Hall and the Senior Formal at 8:00 p. m.

Baccalaureate services will be held Saturday morning at 10:30 in the Congregational Church.

Commencement exercises will begin at 2:00 Saturday afternoon. The exercises will include addresses by a guest speaker and a member of the senior class. Independent Study Program to Begin Next Fall

The independent study program which was proposed by Headmaster Dolven on January 15, will begin operation in the fall. The following eight seniors will be participating in the program.

Obie Atkinson: Obie's project will be in the field of calculus. He will study this independently while simultaneously taking trigonometry. Mr. Cousins will be Obie's advisor.

John Erhard: John's independent study will be in the field of photography: working with its principles, taking pictures, and using techniques which he did not know previously. At the end of the year, John's project will culminate in either a photographic essay or a motion picture. John's tentative advisor is Mr. Weir, a new faculty member.

Bob Gilpatric: Bob's project will deal with photography: spending the year taking pictures and at the end of the year, grouping these pictures according to mood (hate, depression, joy, love, etc.). Possible advisor is Mr. Owen.

Susan Hatch: Sue's independent study project will deal with photography and poetry. Sue will be creating a book of poems along with pictures which she will take and develop. Her advisor will be Mr. Owen.

James Ogg: Jim's study will be in the field of basic electronics and will concern two projects: one, building a laser; two, building a color television set. Jim's advisor will be Mr. Dolven.

Ted St. Pierre: Ted's study will be sculpture: finding and experimenting with various materials to create sculptural forms. For example, combining ceramic, metal, and wood in accordance with light, sound, and movement, all finally resulting in objects for exhibition. Mr. Owen will be Ted's advisor.

Jay Sbrega: Jay's independent project will be a study of yoga —entailing research on yoga: its origin, development, and usefulness in stimulating the mind and body. At the present time, Jay has not chosen an advisor.

Stephanie Stokes: Stephie will be studying navigation, boat buiding techniques, and methods of signaling (flags and Morse Code). This will be a full year project and will include the construction of a small boat. Mr. Bigelow will be Stephie's advisor.

ART DEPARTMENT

Melinda Held

Moving into the spring term the Gould art department is taking on a new face. Charcoal and paints have been replaced by hunks of clay, and potter's wheels have been set up in the former "foods and nutrition" section of the cottage. A new kiln has been built and plans for a raku kiln have been made. (A kiln--building is scheduled for May 10.)

Frannie Wexler, art student, views the change to pottery with approval, "Working with clay is more satisfying than painting because you are working with your hands instead of a brush, and there is much more physical effort involved."

Buffy Raymond agrees. "With pottery you aren't just dealing with an illusion; you're making something useful."

A field trip to Vermont to see glass-blowing and print-making was also very successful. Frannie reflected, "It was really interesting to see how the artist lived. Mr. Owen told us beforehand that their work and their equipment were the most important things to them, but it was still surprising to see the way the house was arranged around the press and work bench and the barn was converted into a shed for the glass furnace."

The art history students joined the studio art class for a trip to the Boston art museum. Martha Wentworth, art history student, said, "Seeing the real paintings instead of just pictures of them was really exciting."

Mr. Owen advised his classes to evaluate the museum art in terms of the different solutions to visual problems.

Chris Foley commented on the art school that the group visited, "It was fascinating to see the different techniques they use and how pictures are constructed."

BOWHAY'S BABIES — — — — PROMISING OUTLOOK?

BASEBALL OUTLOOK

Dave Jervis

Although they have a limited number of players. this year's baseball team looks promising. The infield seems strong with Captain Craig Boyd at third base, Danny Vogt at shortstop, Rusty Phipps at second base, and Bob Schmohl at first.

The team has a limited pitching staff with Stuart Gaw, Dave Jervis, and Ric Mercer, but they seem to be dedicated in their work.

The outfielders are inexperienced but willing. They include Ron Collins, Ric Mercer, and Doug Bailey.

Catching seems promising but a lot of determination and stamina are needed behind Stuart, Gaw and Dave Jervis.

Reserves are Mike McCreary and Rob Cope.

The team's first game (away) was Thursday, May 1, against Notre Dame High School. The first home game was May 3 against M. C. I.

The Match Seller ..... Ted St. Pierre

"A Slight Ache", by Harold Pinter, is a play in dry British humor about an elderly couple and some of their "problems" which seem "solvable" only by arguments. The poor match seller is, or was, only an innocent bystander. He doesn't talk much, leaving more time for Edward and Flora.

The play and/or we will be put on May 26th.
